94TH YEAR

GETTYSBURG, PA., WEDNESDAY, JULY 17, 1912

NO. 48

DEMOCRATIC CO. COMMITTEE ORGANIZED FOR THE CAMPAIGN AT A MEETING LAST SATURDAY

Hon. David H. Guise, of Liberty
Township, was Unanimously Elected Chairman.

The Democratic County Committee met last Saturday at the Globe Hotel in this place. There was a good turnout considering the very busy season for the farmers. Every district but five was represented at the meeting and all the candidates were there.

The meeting was called together by County Chairman S. Miley Miller and Secretary D. P. Delap read the call as printed in the last issue of the Compiler, being for the purpose of electing a Chairman, Secretary and Treasurer and to transact such other business as may come before it.

The first business of the Committee after roll call was the election of a Chairman. Many of the Committee heard with sincere regret that S. Miley Miller, Chairman of the Committee for the past seven years had determined to retire from that position.

S. MILEY MILLER.

When nominations for that office were asked for, Hon. D. H. Guise, of Liberty township was placed in nomination and after a call for other nominations a motion was made that nominations close, and this was followed by a motion to elect by acclamation, and Hon. D. H. Guise was unanimously elected Chairman of the Democratic County Committee by acclamation.

In taking the chair, retiring Chairman S. Miley Miller warmly grasped the new chairman by the hand, saying: "I extend to you my congratulations and hope you may have success in the work."

Mr. Guise briefly addressed the Committee, saying: "Gentlemen of the Committee, I wish to thank you for the honor you have given me. As you have elected me unanimously I feel sure you will give me your untiring support and help in the campaign ahead. I feel sure that if we all work together we will have a glorious victory. I want you to greet me whenever you meet me, give me all the information and help in your power, for only in this way will I be able to do my work."

HON. D. H. GUISE.

Chairman Guise then called for nominations for Secretary and Treasurer, and D. P. Delap of Gettysburg was unanimously elected Secretary and Treasurer.

A motion was then made and carried that the Chairman appoint a committee of five on Resolutions, and the following were named: Isaac H. Hoechst of East Berlin, Robert D. Bream of Franklin, Hon. Geo. L. Rice of McSherrystown, Wm. F. Weaver of Gettysburg and W. F. Watson of Hamletown. This committee retired for the consideration of their work.

While the Committee on Resolutions were at their work the County Committee was listening to a number of speeches.

Allen Seitz, County Chairman of York County being introduced, among other things said: "I got into this campaign on the issue of progressiveness and I understand that is the controlling position of the party in Adams and that should result in good to the party and victory at the polls. I will be looking for Adams to go Democratic next November and to send the good news that York has also gone Democratic. It would be a disgrace to carry this district for Wilson by 5000 and then lose it to the Republicans, for Wilson will need in Congress the vote of the representative of the district as much as he will need your votes for President. We propose to have a thorough canvass this year in York, to be in touch with every voter. This looks like a Democratic year and this should be an incentive for every one to put his shoulder to the wheel. The help of every one is needed and there there should be credit enough to go around. I am sure York county will give Wilson 5000 majority. We are not only for Wilson but for the entire ticket. The closer you can get to your people, the better organization you will have. The better elements in both parties are with us and in November we want to get the good news from you and send the same good news back to you that both counties have gone Democratic for the entire ticket.

Senator Martin among other things said: "I hope you don't expect me to make a speech, but I can not refrain from saying how delighted I am to meet you all, how much I appreciated your support at the primary and I trust I will have the united support of all the committeemen at the polls. I need all the Democratic votes and a whole lot of Republican votes to succeed in this district. With the united support of the Democracy of the district I can hope to be elected. I trust every committeeman will lend me a helping hand and if I am successful, I will serve you to the extent of my ability."

Resolutions Adopted

At this point Isaac H. Hoechst, Chairman of the Committee on Resolutions reported that the Committee had adopted the following resolutions, which he read. The sentiments were applauded several times as they were read and at the conclusion were unanimously adopted with a hurrah.

The Democratic County Committee of Adams County in annual session do hereby declare as follows:

1st. That the platform adopted by the Democratic National Convention and the platform adopted by the Democratic State Convention have our unqualified and hearty approval and endorsement. They are not mere promises but the pledges for fulfillment of a progressive Democracy. We invite all citizens to unite with us in the support of the Democratic ticket standing upon these platforms in Nation and State for a government more expressive of the will of the people.

2nd. The Democratic candidates for President and Vice President, Woodrow Wilson and Thomas R. Marshall, are men of preeminent abilities and irreproachable characters devoted to the cause of progressive Democracy and are entitled to the enthusiastic and whole hearted support of all true Democrats and of all citizens believing in a progressive government of the people.

3rd. The Democratic State ticket with that eminent reformer Wm. H. Berry at its head should receive the earnest support of every Democrat and all citizens who desire that the Keystone State be administered free of the rule of the Machine and with an open door on its activities.

4th. The certainty of the election of a Democratic President and a Democratic Congress demands that the Democracy of the Twentieth Congressional District send to Congress one who will support the coming progressive Democratic administration. The consistent support of Wilson and all that he stands for demands the election of Andrew R. Brodbeck to Congress from this District, whom we heartily endorse as a progressive Democrat.

5th. The record of State Senator Wm. A. Martin commends him to the support of all Democrats and citizens of his District. His work to secure the passage of the present good roads law which will bring good roads to hundreds of farmers of this county, his earnest successful fight for the laws to protect the farmer in purchases of fertilizers and stock feeds and his efforts to defeat the $1 gun license on the owner of every gun deserves the hearty endorsement and support of all farmers and citizens with their votes.

6th. The record of James C. Cole in the legislature deserves the hearty approval of his Democratic constituents and that Democracy's representative in the last legislature was true to Democratic principles is the pledge of Democracy that in V. A. Collins will be found one who will be true to Democratic principles and entitled to the support and votes of all Democrats and citizens.

I H. Hoechst,
Geo. L. Rice,
Wm. F. Weaver,
R. D. Bream,
W. F. Watson.

Speech of A. R. Brodbeck.

Andrew R. Brodbeck, Democratic candidate for Congress, was then introduced and spoke as follows:

"I appreciate the courtesy of the privilege to address you briefly upon this occasion and I shall not trespass long upon your valued time. It is inspiring to see so many of the representatives of the sturdy Democracy of York county present at this meeting."

By your presence here today you not only manifest a devotion to your party, but an irresistible desire and willingness to promote and advance the great principles and policies of the party, and the best interests of your constituency.

The opportunities before the Democratic party at this particular time are of such moment and Nation-wide importance—that it behooves every Democratic leader, worker and voter in general, yea—the people of the Nation, irrespective of party affiliation to pledge, resolve—and decree to assert themselves as never before with a determination to wrest the executive affairs of the Government from Trust and Corporate controlled influences and fight for the restoration of representative form of government and for peoples rights.

The Republican leaders, officeholders and heaters have at all times upon theories of protection, high ways and property—influenced and intimidated—the unsuspecting voter and workingman, until conditions became intolerable—you will remember that two years ago—our Nation was stirred to the core and tens and hundreds of thousands of voters throughout the U. S. asserted themselves and voluntarily cast their ballot for candidates representing Democratic policies.

The result was that the much ridiculed and vilified Democratic party was signally triumphant and by a large majority assumes the responsibility and leadership in the House of Representatives in the U. S. Congress.

Fortunate indeed was this change of party policy, it came at a time when the Republican leaders were running affairs—high handed—over-riding and defying the wishes and interests of the common people for the benefit and unlimited greediness of corporate interests—until the oppressions became intolerable and life and living became a matter of sacrificial existence.

The Democratic party having triumphed upon promises and pledges true to Jeffersonian policies, very much to the satisfaction and relief of the people of the Nation—the Democratic party true to its principals unmasked the treacherous monster of deception and today the people see more clearly than ever before how they were deceived—and now assert themselves throughout the length and breadth of the U. S. for further relief, for justice, for a square deal.

The people also realize today as they never did before, that the sovereign right and power of a free people and a free government rests wholly with themselves, and that for more than a quarter century were the unconscious and unsuspecting victims of unscrupulous and brazen-faced political leaders and dictators who by intrigue and deception, influenced them to sacrifice their civil rights and liberties contrary to what the Constitution of the U. S. intended they should exercise and enjoy.

Recognizing the expediency and the imperative necessity of forsaking and renouncing former practices and leaderships.

There is an uprising among the people and a wave of irresistible sentiment prevailing throughout the Nation extending from the Atlantic to the Pacific from the Lakes to the Gulf—for reform, reorganization and the overthrow of former leaders.

The manifest certainty that this is true is the fact that wherever political parties convened to deliberate upon matters appertaining to the welfare of States or the Nation or the people in particular that many former leaders were de-throned and reactionary policies were replaced upon progressive policies.

This great change for reform, reorganization and new policies is not confined within any one of the great political parties, but it is a voluntary, spontaneous uprising of the masses—in defiance of being further controlled by representatives of predatory or corporate influences.

So great is the determination to eliminate any and all undesirable men or elements—that the presence of several men recognized as the representatives of large financial interests in Wall St., at the Republican National Convention at Chicago, aroused a storm of opposition and seriously affected the character or policies of the candidate whomsoever they would endorse.

The storm centre in the Democratic National Convention at Baltimore was precipitated and augmented when it became apparent that several conspicuous representatives of high finances of the Wall St. dynasty were present evidently operating along reactionary lines.

The champions of the 'People's Cause' however asserted themselves and decreed that the 'People shall rule' and that the cause of humanity must prevail—that this is a government of the people, for the people and by the people and that none be recognized in the Council of the Democratic party who can not unreservedly subscribe his allegiance to the fundamental principles of a free and unadulterated popular government.

The consummation of the labors of the Democratic National Convention at Baltimore was the greatest achievement for the people's rights and popular government in modern times and marks a new era in the political history of the U. S. of America. Notwithstanding it being a hard contested and prolonged session of the convention, the final outcome was a glorious triumph for harmony and unanimity.

The candidates presented before the convention were men of sterling qualities, of eminent abilities of the highest type of public character, men of great records, any of whom would have been eminently acceptable.

The choice of the convention however is the one man among men, who stood out most prominent as the Nations choice, the people's choice the Hon. Woodrow Wilson.

The preeminent fitness, integrity and ability of Gov. Wilson, his unquestioned loyalty to the cause of good government, his fearless assailment of corrupt and questionable political practices, his absolute independence from political dictatorship or control, has endeared him in the hearts and confidences of the people, and makes him

National Guard Encampment.

Three brigades of the National Guard of Pennsylvania, including 10 regiments of infantry, a squadron of cavalry, a battery of artillery and a company of engineers will go into encampment at Gettysburg on July 22 for a period of about 10 days. The first brigade will arrive on next Saturday, July 20, the Third Brigade on next Monday, July 22 and the Fourth Brigade on next Tuesday, July 23.

The camp will be known as Camp Edwin S. Stuart, being named after a living person for the first time and will be under command of Major General C. B. Dougherty, who will have his headquarters near the Mill road on Springs Hotel property. The Third Brigade will be located on the same land. The First Brigade will be located on the farm of D. J. Forney. The Fourth Brigade will be on the Wible and Wolf land three miles south of town. The first two mentioned will be reached by conveyances, the last by trolley.

An elaborate program has been arranged for the encampment. The afternoon of July 25 has been set aside for a demonstration by the engineers. Trenches will be dug, the various methods of sheltering troops from dangerous missiles will be demonstrated and the effect of explosives will be shown by exploding quantities of dynamite and nitro-glycerine.

The big problem of the week will take place on the third day. The troops will leave their permanent camp, march out beyond the lines taken by the Union troops at the battle of Gettysburg on the first day, and establish their small shelter tents and cooking their dinners over small campfires, using their mess pans and individual cooking equipment. A strong position will be taken up, and in the afternoon an attack will be made on the camp by troops from one of the other brigades. The return to camp will take place later in the afternoon.

Saturday, July 27, will be a red-letter day for the troops. The entire body will engage in a battle, the details of which will not be known until the morning of the engagement. The signal corps will demonstrate in this maneuver the use of wireless telegraphy, keeping the commanding officer of the "army" to which they are assigned fully informed of the movements of the troops under his command, although the extreme distance may reach seven miles between him and his outlying organizations.

Distressing Drowning Accident.

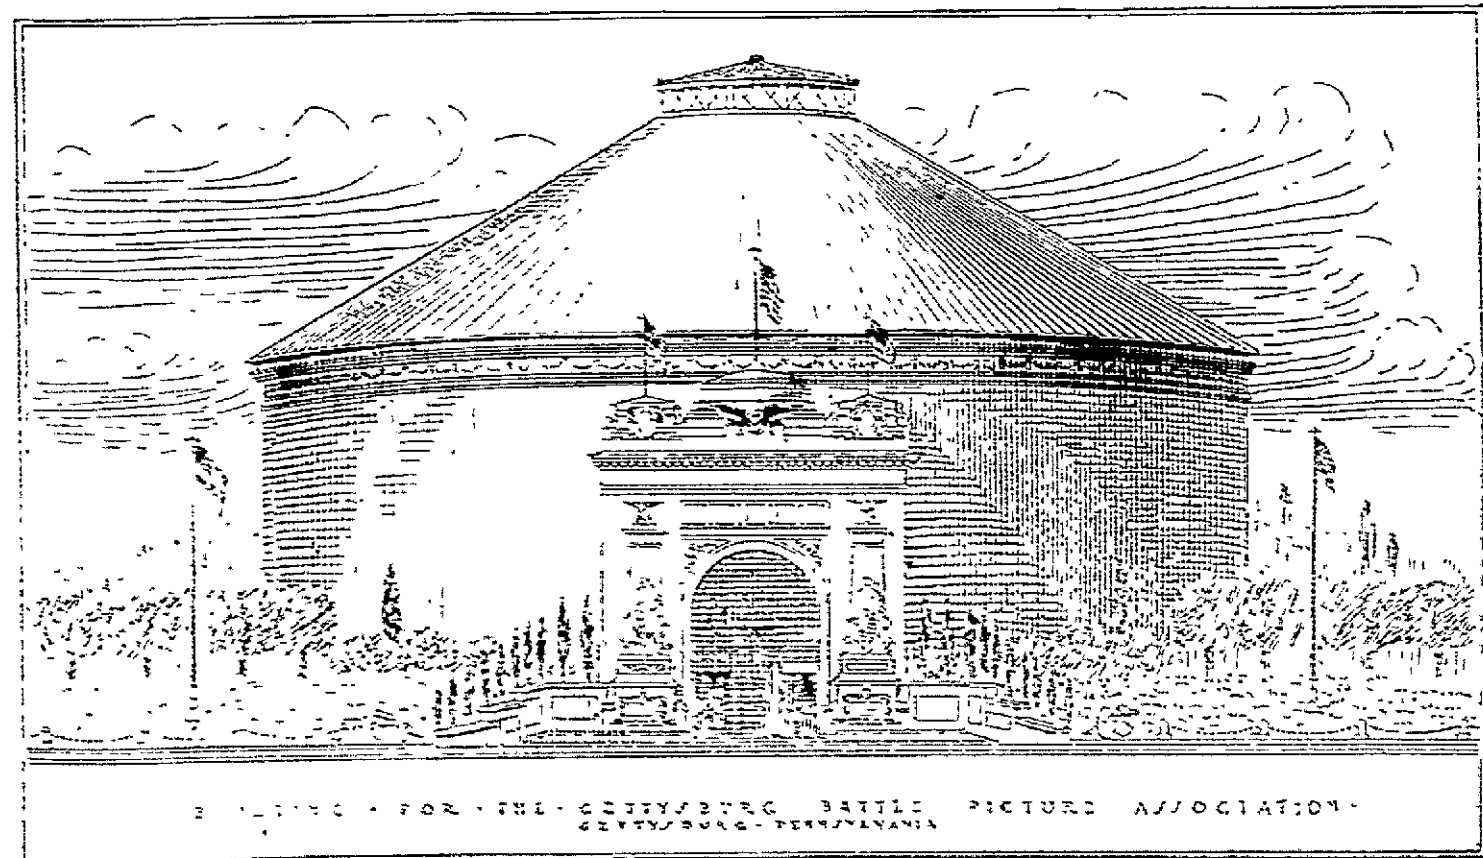

The shocking news reached this place last week that on last Thursday evening Miss Miriam C. Fritsch, youngest daughter of Rev. and Mrs. G. W. Fritsch of Amsterdam, New York was drowned in West Coroga lake with a girl companion, Miss Jessie May Wilkie.

About fifteen young girls of the Amsterdam High School had gone to the lake for a two weeks outing. On Thursday evening about 5 o'clock a number of girls prepared for bathing at a point believed to be perfectly safe for the purpose. The companion of Miss Fritsch could swim fairly well and the two in swimming became separated from the other girls. They had been floating and stopping to recover from the exertion found that they could not touch bottom. It is presumed that both girls became frightened and were utterly unable to help themselves. They screamed for help and went down. None of the other girls could swim. A man seeing the danger and not being a swimmer ran to the shore and pushed out a boat but there were no oars and he had to propel the boat with his hands. He called to the girls to keep up but when he reached the spot both had disappeared. A crowd quickly gathered and an expert swimmer diving brought up the bodies after being in the water about twenty minutes and physicians worked over bodies without avail for over an hour.

Miss Fritsch was 18 years of age and of that vivacious type of girlhood whose enthusiasm was infectious. She was the youngest in her family. Besides her parents she is survived by one brother Luther M. Fritsch, who graduated from Gettysburg College last June and three sisters. Mrs. David Ecker of New York, Mrs. James B. Conant and Miss Emily of Amsterdam. The funeral was held on last Saturday. Miss Fritsch was a niece of Craig Shields of this place and Miss Bessie Shields attended the funeral.

The building will have a steel frame and the side walls will rest on a concrete foundation, the walls being constructed of hollow tile, with metal roof and have been so prepared. The picture will be protected with a curtain and the inside circle arranged for an auditorium capable of seating from 200 to 2500 people. This auditorium will be given Gettysburg a place in which East Cemetery Hill and will be reached by a sidewalk continued from the town to go after larger conventions than was possible before. The town has been limited to conventions with delegates not exceeding one thousand, but this building will make it possible erection of a building in place to hold the great painting by Philipoteaux of the Battle of Gettysburg for exhibition.

Two Men Drowned.

George Gordon, aged 28, of Hanover and Eugene Rife, aged 22, of Midway were drowned on Sunday afternoon in the pond at Hoke's quarry near Bittinger's Station. They had gone to the pond in quarry to bath in the cool waters. Gordon was the first to enter the water. He could not swim and soon was beyond his depth, the water being from ten to thirty feet deep at different points. Rife immediately responded to the call of Gordon for help and plunged into the cold water. Other men hurried to throw rafts into the water. Gordon and Rife are supposed to have been seized with cramp from the cold water, or that Gordon grasped his rescuer in a way to prevent rescue. The bodies were found Sunday evening in ten feet of water. Both men were unmarried. Rife worked in the Hanover Shoe factory and was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Rife, of Midway. Gordon was a plasterer, the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Gordon. The funerals will be held to-day, Wednesday.

EDGELL'S BATTERY MONUMENT.

On last Wednesday morning the monument of Edgell's Battery A. First New Hampshire Light Artillery was dedicated. It is located in the National Cemetery near the Rostrum. This battery did not share in the general appropriation by which other commands from New Hampshire erected monuments here. A recent appropriation and contributions from the members made possible the monument dedicated last week. Of the 135 men in the battery during the war but 33 now live and but 5 of these were present with small party from New Hampshire and local people. Sergeant S. S. Pifer was master of ceremonies. George J. McAllister of Manchester, N. H. made the address of the occasion and all survivors of battery briefly spoke. Mr. Palmer of 2nd Connecticut Light Artillery also briefly spoke and the monument was accepted by Calvin Hamilton, W. C. Tipton had draped monument with flag and it was removed during the speaking.

Capt. F. M. Edgell made an official report of the part taken by the Battery and among other things said:

The battery arrived on the field from Taneytown on July 2, at 10 a. m. and at 4 p. m., by order of Major Osborn, chief of artillery, Eleventh Corps, went into position on Cemetery Hill, immediately on the left of the cemetery, relieving a battery, the name of which I did not ascertain. At that time the fire of the enemy's artillery was directed upon the hill from positions in our front and to the left. After getting the range I commenced throwing percussion and time shells at their batteries, engaging but one at a time; the first one, situated on the Chambersburg road and opposite the Seminary, I succeeded in silencing for a time. The firing was necessarily slow, on account of the distance (2000 yards and over), and later in the afternoon gradually ceased, only an occasional shot being fired. Up to this time I had expended 105 rounds of ammunition, and had one horse killed and one wheel smashed.

An attack being now apprehended on the right, I was directed by Major Osborn to move to a position in a cornfield near the Baltimore turnpike, with instructions to cover the possible retreat of our troops on the right. Our troops, however, maintained their position, and my battery was not employed. The men were kept at the guns during the night, as the firing of musketry was sharp and continuous. As the morning of the 3rd began to dawn, the firing became more rapid, and did not cease until about 11 a. m.

At about 1.30 p. m. the enemy opened a rapid artillery fire on our center and left. Their batteries, in a semi-circle about this point, swept the hill with a terrible, fierce cross-fire. The battery was now much exposed to the plunging shots of the enemy, which fell continually among my pieces, but fortunately without doing much damage.

At 2.30 p. m. I was ordered to take up my old position on Cemetery Hill, relieving Captain Huntington's Ohio battery. I commenced again to throw shells at the enemy's batteries, and also at some bodies of troops, apparently picket reserves, which caused them to break and retreat to the woods. The firing of the enemy's artillery was now very inaccurate, most of the shots being too high, and by the direction of General Meade the firing was discontinued by the batteries on the hill and the men ordered to lie down.

Soon after, at about 4 p. m., a grand attack was made by the enemy on our left, and I commenced a rapid fire of case shot on his advancing lines. I fired obliquely from my position upon the left of the attacking column with destructive effect, as that wing was broken and fled across the field to the woods. I next saw what appeared to be the remainder of the attacking force come into our lines prisoners. There was no firing by my battery after this.

I expended this day 248 rounds of shell and case shot, making 353 total expended.

The casualties in my battery were 3 men wounded (only 1 seriously), 1 also lost 3 horses killed, and a wheel and axle broken. The latter were replaced during the night of the 4th from the field.

Trolley Talk.

Now comes the report that the trolley from Caledonia to Gettysburg will be immediately built. It has been a source of wonder that those in the trolley building business have not been attracted to Gettysburg long before this, specially with ends of trolley line and fifteen miles away. It hardly seems possible that trolley men who know would permit the traffic at Gettysburg in 1912 to escape their exploiting. With 200,000 visitors annually and with an unprecedented crowd coming in 1913 this place should be a most inviting field. There will be two big conventions before the great gathering Railroads in all parts of the country will make special excursion rates here covering likely a 30-day time limit. Even if the celebration is finally limited to four days there will be a constant moving throng for a long period of time and any trolley ought to do a land once business. The great battlefield park could well be used as an objective point for all the trolleys that could be built here and when the Lincoln way comes, this place will be a center of attraction that should make trolley productive enterprises. From Chambersburg comes the following news.

From very reliable authority it is learned that capitalists of New York City have purchased the Valley Traction Co., a trolley line from Carlisle to Harrisburg. We understand that the price paid was $40 for the common stock per share, $50 a share for preferred and $103 for the 5 per cent bonds.

The important feature is that this sale includes the Chambersburg and Gettysburg Electric Railway Co., and that one stipulation of the sale is that the local line, the C & G, must be completed between Caledonia and Gettysburg. Options on rights of way in the South Mountain east of Caledonia have been renewed within a month.

RESULTS TELL.

There Can Be No Doubt About the Results in Gettysburg.

Results tell the tale.

All doubt is removed.

The testimony of a Gettysburg citizen

Can be easily investigated.

What better proof can be had?

Mrs. Mary Ohler, 147 Hanover St., Gettysburg, Pa., says: "I was troubled by weak and disordered kidneys for over a year. My back ached constantly and pains extended from my limbs into my head. I had chills and dizzy spells and was bothered by the kidney secretions. Doan's Kidney Pills were so highly recommended that I finally procured a box at the People's Drug Store. A few doses brought relief and after continuing the use of this remedy for a short time, all symptoms if my trouble disappeared. Doan's Kidney Pills deserve my endorsement." (Statement given November 1, 1907).

A WILLING CORROBORATION.

On January 3, 1910, when Mrs. Ohler was interviewed, she said: "I heartily recommend Doan's Kidney Pills again and confirm all I have previously said about them. This remedy should have a permanent place in every household."

—DOEWE—STOVER—Miss Florence Marie Stover, of Cashtown, and Harry Edgar Andrew, of Mont Alto, were married June 21, at Wilmington, Delaware, by Rev. George Lewis Wolf. The bride was an Adams county school teacher and Mr. Andrew formerly lived in this county.

Throng of Buyers Continue.

The people of Gettysburg and vicinity appreciate the great advantage L. M. Buehler obtained for them, in getting the Dr. Howard's Co. to allow regular 50 cent size of Dr. Howard's specific, for the cure of constipation and dyspepsia, to be sold at half price, 25 cents, and have bought hundreds of bottles.

Every bottle of the specific sold by L. M. Buehler has had his personal guarantee to refund the money if it was not satisfactory, but none has come back, showing the wonderful curative power of this remedy.

Unlike ordinary medicines for constipation and dyspepsia, the dose of Dr. Howard's specific is reduced after a few day's use, and the cure is soon completed and lasting.

If you have not already taken advantage of this chance to get a month's medical treatment for 25 cents, be sure to call at L. M. Buehler's today, for he has only a small amount of the specific on hand.

Patriotism

The stomach is a larger factor in "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness" than most people are aware. Patriotism can withstand hunger but not dyspepsia. The confirmed dyspeptic "is fit for treason, stratagems and spoils." The man who goes to the front for his country with a weak stomach will be a weak soldier and a fault finder.

A sound stomach makes for good citizenship as well as for health and happiness.

Diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition are promptly and permanently cured by the use of

Mr. MacDonald.

Violinist. Mr. MacDonald is an artist of excellent qualities. He possesses musical temperament and unlimited technique—indeed he has the qualities of the true artist. He plays with that artistic finish and warmth of expression that delights. Although one of the younger violinists already he has won a place as a musician of marked ability. Mr. MacDonald will be heard a number of times during the days of July 20 and 21.

Dr. W. A. Granville.

Dr. Granville, the popular President of Gettysburg College, has graciously consented to address the Chautauqua on one of the days of the Assembly. We are sure that this will be a gratifying announcement to those who have had the pleasure of listening to Dr. Granville. Those who have not yet had the pleasure have a new treat in store.

MR. I. L. TAYLOR.

The Chautauqua Chorus.

Mr. I. L. Taylor Director. All who attended last year's Chautauqua have pleasant memories of the delightful musical programs rendered by the Chautauqua Chorus under the direction of Mr. I. L. Taylor. This year we will again have the pleasure of hearing this company of singers. In addition to the special Sunday programs the Chorus will give a popular concert on the evening of July 30th.

On the afternoon of August 3rd, which will be "children's afternoon," a chorus of children under the direction of Mr. I. L. Taylor, will give a short musical program as a prelude to the entertainment to be given by the Dietrichs. On this afternoon all the children are invited to be the guests of the Chautauqua. No tickets will be required by the children.

Dr. I. C. Billheimer.

On Sunday evening, August 4th, Dr. Billheimer will give his popular illustrated lecture on "Esther." This lecture has been delivered before some of the most critical and discriminating audiences and has been received with marked favor. A professional man who heard this lecture a short time ago said: "I will give $5.00 to hear that lecture on Esther by Dr. Billheimer again. It is a masterpiece." Dr. Billheimer has the ability to illumine any subject he may take up.

Rev. J. B. Baker.

Rev. Baker needs no words of recommendation to the patrons of Gettysburg Chautauqua. Every body knows him as one of the most popular workers among the young people—yes, and among the older people. He is a strong preacher and an energetic leader. He will have charge of the Union Christian Endeavor meeting.

Sunday Programs.

The programs provided for the two Sundays of the Chautauqua are rich in many features. First the Union Sunday School; then the regular service with splendid music and great sermons by some of the strongest preachers in the country, followed in the afternoon by a delightful prelude and a great address, and then the evening with the special musical program by the Chorus, and another great lecture. Each Sunday will be a day of inspiration and uplift. Come with us. The doors will be open to all.

Through the courtesy of Mr. Frank Hartman, the Gettysburg representative of The Victor Talking Machine Company, we will have the pleasure of presenting as a special feature to the patrons of the Chautauqua, the "Victrola," the most perfect and wonderful musical instrument of the age.

It is with much satisfaction that we announce that Prof. Sanders will again have charge of the Union Sunday School on the two Sundays of the Chautauqua. Prof. Sanders is widely known as an educator and Sunday School Superintendent of great ability. He will also have charge of the educational hour on the closing day if the Assembly.

Chautauqua Idea

The Chautauqua idea was one of the greatest thoughts which ever came to the mind of man in the last century. It combines all the best features of the camp-meeting interests, which has, in a large measure passed away, and adds to it many new features which are demanded by the growing times in which we live.

The Chautauqua movement is thoroughly undenominational, and here people of all creeds and parties mingle thoughtfully and lovingly. The Chautauqua is organized on high ground and has high aims. It appeals to the thoughtful and cultured, and seeks to displace some forms of amusement which are unworthy and fraught with danger.

More and more in these strenuous days people feel the need of a little vacation. Earnest people are hardly willing to waste time in a vacation which does not bring them a little intellectual uplift, hence the phenomenal growth of the Chautauqua idea. A Chautauqua is a benediction to any community in which it abides. It appeals in its varied program to both old and young and is certain to cultivate high ideals of living and thinking.

So it is with a great deal of pride and no little pleasure that we present this program. It is not a program of scattered brilliancy, but every hour of each of the ten days' session is provided with features which go to make instructive and edifying, Chautauqua work.

No pains are spared to secure the best talent. Every lecture, every entertainment that will appear on the Chautauqua platform comes to us with the highest recommendations and the people can rest assured that every attraction will be up to the highest standard.

Our purpose is to create a common interest in the things which make for noble culture and useful living; to make our community as near as possible, an ideal place in which to live and work, and to provide a social center for the people of our community—a center which shall provide the fullest measure of helpful inspiration and wholesome recreation.

Every right minded citizen of this community should give to this entertainment, which stands for things which are so high and lofty, his loyal support and co-operation.

It is not a money-making scheme. It is a Simon-pure Chautauqua. In its fullest meaning—educational, inspiring, elevating, entertaining. It is not conducted for the purpose of making money. It is run wholly for the benefit of its patrons and the community. It is purely co-operative. Everyone inside the gates—big or little—is part of it—just as much a part as anybody. The money taken in is turned back into the Assemblies and the patrons get the benefit of it.

THE GREAT CHAUTAUQUA CHORUS UNDER THE DIRECTION OF MR. I. L. TAYLOR.

PROMINENT TALENT HAS BEEN ENGAGED FOR THE GETTYSBURG CHAUTAUQUA

THE PROGRAM ON CIRCULATION INCLUDES SOME OF THE GREATEST LECTURERS AND PREACHERS IN AMERICA

Rev. Dr. Anna Shaw Will Speak on "The Duty of Women Citizens in a Republic"—Mrs. Martha P. Falconer on "Neglected Children"—The Dietrics, Magicians and Musicians—Lyric Quartette—Other Attractions and Speakers.

Rev. Dr. Anna H. Shaw.

One of the ablest speakers of to-day. She was educated for the ministry—educated herself. She is a self-made woman. If any other body made her what she is, that other body might well be proud of the work. Young girls with their own destiny to hew out should go to hear the Rev. Anna H. Shaw and take courage. She studied medicine, prepared herself to doctor body and soul, was ordained, and preached for one parish seven years; and then she exchanged the small parish for a larger one—that is, the world for her parish, and the enfranchisement of women her Gospel.

Miss Shaw has repeatedly spoken before Congressional and Legislative committees. Whenever women have a "case in court"—that is, a bill before a legislative body, they send for Miss Shaw to speak. She is a born orator; has a magnificent voice which she never spares, but which endures without impairment most severe usage. Few women and few men are so well equipped for public speaking as the Rev. Anna H. Shaw.

Rev. Anna Shaw, of Philadelphia, is one of the ablest speakers on the platform, either among men or women. She has a well-trained mind, quenchless enthusiasm and that rarest of all qualities—pluck. Her history proves all this. No woman could have wrenched education and success from more difficult conditions. America does not contain a more loyal and devoted adherent of woman's cause. A graduate of Boston University, in both medicine and theology, Dr. Shaw brings rare qualities to her platform work. Her lecture, entitled "The Fate of Republics," is one of the finest I have ever heard, both in matter and delivery. Audiences will be conciliated by her cultured manner, enlivened by her wit, and captured by her logic.

FRANCIS E. WILLARD.

As an intellectual, logical, eloquent, witty and captivating speaker, I consider Rev. Anna H. Shaw equal to the very best on the American platform. She richly merits the popular applause she receives.

GEORGE W. BAIN.

On the afternoon of Woman's Day Miss Shaw will speak on "The Duty of Women Citizens in a Republic."

Mrs. Martha P. Falconer.

A brilliant and aggressive speaker. Mrs. Martha P. Falconer, who will be one of the speakers on "Woman's Day," is justly recognized as one of the most advanced and progressive in her particular line of work. She is keen of intellect, gracious of manner, charming of personality, and a most effective speaker.

For six years she has had charge of Sleighton Farm, which is the Girl's Department of the Old House of Refuge of Philadelphia. She came to Philadelphia from Chicago, where she was one of the first probation officers in the Juvenile Court, and also assistant superintendent of the Illinois Children's Aid Society. Since coming East she has reorganized this school and moved it from the city to the country. She has been working out some theories of her own, especially about having all of the outside work done by the girls under the direction of a woman farmer, trained at Cornell.

None can afford to miss hearing Mrs. Falconer in her address on "What the State is Doing for Its Neglected Children."

Miss Jeannette Turner Broomell.

Miss Jeannette Turner Broomell has attained her greatest distinction, no doubt, through her matchless interpretations of child life; but added to this special gift she is a reader of much culture and versatility in other lines, and is equally happy in presenting monologues and stories, and carries her audience from laughter to tears through comedy and pathos. Many of her presentations are original and her poems and sketches exhibit a keen insight into the character and thought of the people she portrays.

At the Teachers' Institute Course at the Opera House last night, the impersonations and readings of Miss Broomell marked her as the finest interpreter of child life before the American public. She received repeated encores to every number, and her choice of selections and versatility proved to the most critical that she easily excels all in her line of art.—York Daily, York, Pa.

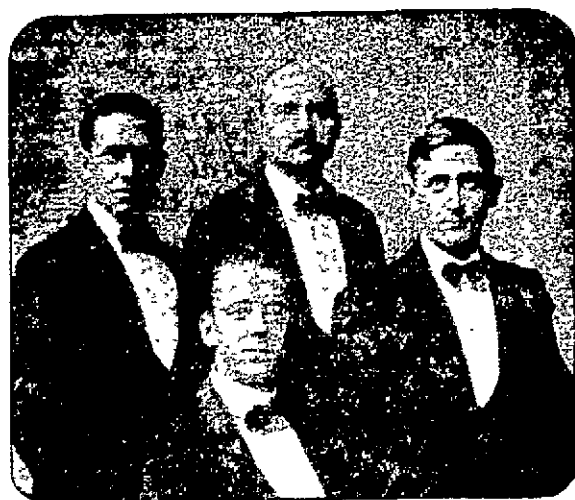

In Miss Jeannette T. Broomell, the audience enjoyed a delightful and versatile reader. Her stories and monologues were charming and whether portraying the daintiness of the little girl, the bravado of the American boy, or rendering with exquisite pathos some poem of the heart, she held the audience spellbound. Tampa Fla., Press.

Mrs. Ada Turner Kurtz.

"Madam Kurtz sang with beautiful artistic temperament a program consisting of very difficult classics," says the Philadelphia Press in a recent issue. Her voice, a rich mezzo soprano of excellent timbre, was heard to best advantage in her dramatic numbers. The Philadelphia North American at a later date says of this artist: "Who was not charmed, delighted, thrilled and inspired by the old ballads that were rendered by Ada Turner Kurtz? The enthusiasm rose to such a degree that the entire audience of two thousand joined with her in the singing of old favorites." Madam Kurtz will be heard the first two days of the Assembly.

The Lyric Quartette.

Thomas Haymes tenor; Ralph M. Williams, tenor; Chester P. Myers, baritone; John T. Coates, bass.

The Lyric Quartet is a musical organization of excellent harmony. The quartet presents a rare blending of music and mirth. The perfect blending of their voices, the variety of their selections, their ability to please and the up-to-dateness of their work, round out an organization that is somewhat different. In addition to solos and quartet numbers from the leading composers they will present numbers that are popular in character. Their humor is real original and witty. There is nothing funnier than the original songs used by this quartet.

The Lyrics will be with us August first and second.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dietric.

Magicians and Musicians. Possessed of pleasing personalities, these refined entertainers have made a study of entertaining effects: and by constant endeavor have achieved an enviable reputation in their chosen field, of providing good, clean, wholesome amusement. For "something different" it would, indeed, be difficult to obtain the equal of this attraction.

As a magician Mr. Dietric leaves nothing to be desired, skillfully presenting many mystifying, amusing and spectacular combinations in the always fascinating art of legerdemain. His effects embrace so many unique ideas, the exhibition given in his own inimitable manner, is entirely different from the usual stereotyped magical performance, forming a most enjoyable portion of the entertainment.

As a musician Mr. Dietric also excels. Possessing exceptional talent, his solos on the numerous novelty instruments always receive merited appreciation. His work on The Bells and The Xylophone deserves special notice, as it invariably necessitates several encore numbers to satisfy the demands of the audience.

Mrs. Dietric as a musician appeals to both popular and classic tastes. Her cleverness, combined with a charming personality, makes her portion of the entertainment a source of pleasure to all. With selections embracing every thing from "Ragtime" to "Grand-Opera" and the works of the "Great Masters" she is always at home, and her numerous novel numbers and catchy trick playing always please. Mrs. Dietric appears to particular advantage when presenting her Pianologues, which include songs, stories, imitations, impersonations, trick playing and other entertaining and diverting features.

Dr. Charles L. E. Cartwright.

Dr. Cartwright is pastor of North Avenue M. E. Church, Allegheny, Pa., one of the largest and most influential of the denomination, having a membership of nearly 1100, and a Sunday School with an enrollment of 1750. His lectures appeal to all classes and ages. The boys and girls, the young people are among his most interested auditors. He addresses thousands of young people every year. He has a message for the older people as well. Dr. Cartwright is an unqualified success in his platform work. His style is convincing and entertaining and a purpose runs through all his work. He will delight the patrons of the Gettysburg Chautauqua.

Death of Bullder Deprived English Village of Contemplated House of Worship.

There is a curious history regarding an unfinished church which stands at Hassall, near Sandbach, England. A former resident at the local hall, a Mr. Lowndes, painfully conscious of the lack of provision for the spiritual wants of the people in the neighborhood determined to build a church at his own expense. After carefully choosing a site, he gave instructions for the erection of a structure in the modern style capable of seating 400 or 500 persons. Work on it was begun in the summer of 1836, and was pushed on steadily till the day on which Queen Victoria was crowned, by which time the building was well advanced. The crypts, about ten in number, had been put in, the walls and roofs were complete, and the scantlings for the floor were fixed. Indeed, partly in consequence of the national rejoicings, and partly to celebrate the progress which had been made, the building was smothered in flags and decorations, and was the center of the local festivities. Next day Mr. Lowndes was seized with an illness which quickly proved fatal, and with his passing all work on the church ceased. Though the building could have been finished at comparatively small cost, it was abandoned; and it has not been used since, except by tourists, whose names "hallow and adorn it," as Mark Twain said of those on the ruins of Cain's Altar, by the thousand.—Wide World Magazine.

SWEET SOUNDS A MYSTERY

Remarkable Hindu Musical Instrument Puzzles Those Who Hear It for the First Time.

The Hindus have a number of musical instruments for which great antiquity is claimed. Of these there is one that is very curious, not so much by reason of its form or structure, but because of the fact that it is played in a very peculiar manner. It is not a stringed instrument, it is not a wind instrument, and it is not an instrument of percussion. It consists of two small silver trumpets with a very delicate apparatus within.

When the natives play upon this instrument they invariably excite the greatest wonder in the foreigner, who is perplexed to determine how the player produces the sounds, for he does not place the instrument to his lips, but adjusts it to his neck. Foreigners have thought that a player of such an instrument must be a ventriloquist, employing the trumpets to convey a false impression.

It appears, however, that the variations of tone are produced by the variation in the quantity of air propelled through the instrument by the pulsations of the neck.

Nothing could be more curious, it is said, than to witness a performance upon this instrument and to hear the soft, sweet, musical sounds that emanate from the silver trumpets.—Harper's Weekly.

Misdirected Books.

The post office sale of misdirected books, which formed no inconsiderable part of the $10,000 worth of miscellaneous articles disposed of by auction in last year's clearance sale of postal matter of unascertainable ownership, amounted to 1,222 packages.

Nearly every language spoken in our broad land was represented in the collection, which included, as a special curiosity, a Choctaw version of the Book of Psalms. In the entire lot Bibles and books on religious topics predominated.

If more than 1,000 books were misdirected, how many thousands, or perhaps hundreds of thousands, must have been carried by the mails! And how many times that number would be thus carried every year if we had what many another country has, a thorough-going parcels post system.—Dial.

One-Man Structure.

The biggest one-man structure in England is Stivichall church, near Coventry. James Green, a native of that city, not only worked the stones used in it, but with the help of a single laborer, placed them all in position, and, in fact, constructed the whole of it from foundation to turrets. How long it took him to accomplish this feat is not clear. He is said to have been engaged on the task for 40 years, but the interval which elapsed between the demolition of the old church and the opening of the present one was only seven years. At all events, Green's "record," like many others in connection with building, will, we may be sure, stand for generations.—Wide World Magazine.

Jupiter's Moons.

One of the greatest discoveries of science is due to observation of the eclipses of Jupiter's moons. It was found that when the earth was in the part of its orbit nearest to Jupiter these eclipses occurred 16 minutes earlier than when it was in the furthest part; whereas by all rules of astronomy they should have occurred at the same minute each time. It was deduced from this that light was not instantaneous, and consequently took 16 minutes to traverse the diameter of the earth's orbit, a distance of about 200,000,000 miles thus giving to light a velocity of 186,000 miles a second, which was accurately shown later by other experiments.

"RICHMOND" Suction Cleaner

Compare this easy, pleasant method of cleaning with the disagreeable backaching drudgery of brooms, mops and dusters.

Put the machine in every test you can think of.

Then at the end of 5 days if you are willing to part with the machine simply notify us and we'll send for it.

On the other hand if you wish to keep the machine you can pay for it on Easy Monthly Payments out of the actual money which the machine saves for you.

A liberal discount will be allowed those who pay cash.

The experience of most purchasers is that the "RICHMOND" Suction Cleaner pays for itself in from twelve to thirty months.

It pays for itself, first, because it does away with the annual or semi-annual tear ups called housecleaning (and housecleaning costs more than you think unless you have figured it out).

It pays for itself, second, because it does away with the life of floor coverings, hangings, furniture, wall paper, decorations, etc.

The "RICHMOND" Suction Cleaner weighs but 30 pounds. It can easily be carried upstairs, downstairs anywhere without the least fatigue. It is a truly portable cleaner.

A "RICHMOND" is built with a view to long durability and we cover it with the broadest possible guarantee. It is simple in construction. There is nothing to wear out. There are no gears, no diaphragms, no valves. Nothing to jiggle loose. To operate, simply attach to any electric lamp socket. Costs about one cent per hour to operate.

Surely you must see that the "RICHMOND" Suction Cleaner must give perfect service, perfect satisfaction, day after day, month after month, else we could not afford this offer.

But don't take our word for it. Find out for yourself. Try a machine at our risk. If it doesn't make good—if it doesn't more than come up to your expectations, simply tell us to take it away. Could anything be more fair?

Remember it costs you nothing if you decide to keep the machine. All we ask is that $1.00 be deposited with us as evidence of good faith and to keep away triflers. The $1.00 will be refunded in case the machine is returned.

Prices Range from $40.00 to $85.00.

Mail the coupon and get full particulars. Do it now while you're thinking of it.

In Memoriam.

In sad but loving remembrance of my dear husband, James Francis Becker, who died five years ago, July 16, 1907.

How slender is life's silver cord;
How soon 'tis broken here;
Each moment brings a parting word
And many a falling tear.
And though these years too mortals given
Are filled with grief and pain
There is hope, the hope of Heaven,
Where loved ones meet again.

Gettysburg Man Wins Contract.

Capt. Calvin Gilbert was the successful bidder for the contract given out last week by State Highway Commissioner Bigelow for 1000 sign boards and posts for the State highways. Upon the first visit of Mr. Bigelow to Gettysburg he was struck with the metal sign boards erected by the Battlefield Commissioners and upon inquiry ascertained that they had been made in this place by Capt. Gilbert. Later he had a talk with the Captain about them and a design for same. When it came to ordering them it was found necessary to ask for bids and there were twelve bids submitted, the bid of Capt. Gilbert for 1000 sign boards and posts being $9,350, being deemed the lowest bidder on the quality and design submitted.

Homer N. Young Wins Good Position

The many Gettysburg friends of Mr. and Mrs. Homer N. Young will be pleased to learn that Mr. Young on July first was appointed as one of the assistants to William A. Blakeley, Esq., District Attorney of Allegheny County, Pa. Mr. Young was graduated from Gettysburg College with the class of 1900 and was later graduated from the Law Department of the University of Michigan. Since his graduation from the Law School Mr. Young has been engaged in the practice of law at Pittsburgh. While at Gettysburg College Mr. Young won many friends by his dashing play on the college football team. He was captain of the team in 1898 and played end and full back during his entire college course.

On a 900 Mile Walk.

Prof. A. M. Toler, teacher of mathematics in a school at Reading, Pa., and his pretty young wife, dressed in khaki costumes, are on a 900-mile bike from Reading to Pikeville, Ky., where Professor Toler's parents reside. Each carries 10 pounds of baggage and Professor Toler showed in addition a 44-calibre revolver in a belt about his waist. He was recently appointed principal of the Duane School at Staunton, Va.

Professor Toler's grandmother was a sister of "Devil Aue" Hatfield, formerly famous as the head of the Kentucky feud family. He is a cousin of Dr. Drury Hatfield, Republican candidate for Governor of West Virginia.

Professor and Mrs. Toler left Reading on July 4 and expect to reach their destination by July 30. They tramped through the Lebanon Valley and spent two days on the Gettysburg battlefield.

The couple will visit Harpers Ferry, Luray Caverns and Natural Bridge. They expect to average 30 miles a day. Professor Toler carries a speedometer. He says he and his wife are fond of outdoor life and decided to spend their vacation in a long tramp instead of going to the seashore.

New Oxford Buys a City Hall.

The old public school building in New Oxford, sold at public sale, was purchased by the Town Council of that place, at a bid of $1700. Possession will not be obtained until the new building, now in course of erection, is ready for occupancy. The property consists of a plot of ground fronting 90 feet on Philadelphia street and extending in depth 180 feet, on which is located the large two-story brick building with large one-story annex. These will be converted into council chamber, firemen's room, band hall, lock-up, etc. The engine house and council chamber is entirely too small, and besides where it is located the street is entirely too narrow to get the long hook and ladder truck, etc., to and from the building with ease, besides there is no place to keep the hose in proper condition, etc.

COL. HARVEY ON WILSON.

Col. Harvey, editor of Harper's Weekly having been wonderfully silent after a certain alleged unpleasantness with Gov. Woodrow Wilson, over the advocacy of Harper's Weekly of the candidacy of Wilson has at last spoken and has done the fine thing, among other things saying:

After much hemming and hawing, the Democrats rose to the occasion at Baltimore and nominated their strongest candidate. Granting the probability of the election this year of any reputable statesman who could hold substantially the full support of his party, there can be no doubt that Woodrow Wilson will poll at least half a million more votes than any other whose name was presented for consideration.

The nomination of a conservative, however liberal-minded, would have served only to open the door to Mr. Roosevelt. A "dark horse" the door to Roosevelt. A "dark horse" would have been laughed off the track. Mr. Bryan himself was a hack. Intelligent choice therefore, was restricted to Speaker Clark, the sturdy representative of the Old Order, and Governor Wilson, the virile champion of the New. The basis of Mr. Clark's majority in the convention was appreciation of true worth and services rendered, supplemented by strong personal attachments. The foundation of Mr. Wilson's two-thirds was the feeling that he was a winner, enhanced by admiration of his exceptional intellectual capacity, consideration of his freedom from entanglements, and respect for his moral courage. As between the two, the correctness of the ultimate decision, from the standpoint of availability, is beyond question. If the Democrats cannot elect Woodrow Wilson, they could not elect anybody.

No Democratic national canvass since Jackson's has been inaugurated more auspiciously. The points of vantage may be summarized briefly as follows:

A Democratic year. The people are disgusted with the Republican party and eager for a change.

Disruption of the opposition. The differences of the two wings, for the first time since the Republican party was born, are irreconcilable.

An open and honest convention. In marked contrast with the doings at Chicago, there was at Baltimore no arbitrary action on behalf of one candidate and no suggestion of bribery in the interest of another.

The main issue. Last time the line is sharply drawn between excessive protection and a revenue tariff.

An unpledged candidate. Nobody pretends that Mr. Wilson is under the slightest obligation to any man or group of men for his nomination.

Elimination of bosses. So far from catering to those accustomed to control, Mr. Wilson defied them. He had not hesitated to denounce Mr. Murphy, Mr. Sullivan and Mr. Taggart by name. His sole appeal was to Public Opinion.

Removal of the blight of Bryanism. Mr. Wilson owes nothing to the marplot who schemed to obtain the nomination for himself. Nor is he bound in any way to recognize the vagaries which for so long have discredited the party in the estimation of the country.

Independent support. Almost without exception, the powerful public journals have already pledged the exercise of their utmost endeavors on behalf of the Democratic standard-bearer.

Moral sentiment. The wide-spread revulsion of conscientious citizens against political depravity which Mr. Roosevelt has tried with consummate skill to capitalize for his own advancement now inures to the advantage of Governor Wilson, to the great relief of millions who distrusted Roosevelt but knew not where else to turn.

A vivid personality. Mr. Wilson has demonstrated matchless power of effective appeal to the masses generally, and to active, enthusiastic, younger men in particular. This means that his canvass will be surcharged with the same electrical, persuasive energy which achieved his nomination.

DEMOCRATIC CO. COMMITTEE

universally acceptable to the masses irrespective of party affiliations. I predict his election by a greater majority than any President that ever occupied the White House.

Gov. Wilson is not only a progressive but he is a conservative, safe and sane progressive.

The platform adopted by the Democratic National Convention upon which our standard bearers will go before the people of the Nation for their votes—is a document which specially, forcefully and logically presents declaration of principles that should be carefully studied by all voters to obtain a more intelligent understanding as to what constitutes the paramount features of the campaign.

Time will not permit at this meeting to present and discuss the leading declarations of the platform. A few of the prominent provisions are:

We declare for a tariff for revenue only.

That the high Republican tariff is the principal cause of the unequal distribution of wealth.

For an immediate revision of tariff downward.

For an income tax.

Against high cost of living.

Against Republican extravagance.

For the conservation and development of all natural utilities.

For the establishment of parcel post and extension of rural mail delivery service.

For a generous pension policy.

And unequivocally declare for the "Rule of the people."

For the rights of labor.

For the creation of a Department of Labor.

For Anti-trust laws.

Besides other declarations for the protection and betterment of the conditions of the people of our country and to maintain unimpaired the institutions and traditions of the Nation.

One of the most conspicuous features of the campaign is the fact that party lines are practically eliminated along the line of the essentials.

A large proportion of our Republican friends and neighbors seek the same relief we Democrats do, but under the rule of the powers that be, and the Steam Roller in action at Chicago, they were woefully disappointed. The nominations made represent the old regime, and the platform adopted is a hopeless bluff for what the masses demand. Empty promises of the past seem to be the shoals threatening shipwreck to the old G. O. P. in 1912.

In contrast with the situation confronting our Republican friends—we can with good grace and propriety point to the achievements of the Democratic Convention at Baltimore—They completed their work in harmony, present a united party to the voters, a platform conservatively progressive, and fully abreast with the spirit of the times—and offer the people of the Nation a leader, uncontaminated by reactionary influences or individual bigoted ideas, but a logical, safe and sane conservative progressive in the person of Hon. Woodrow Wilson.

By virtue of the wise and intelligent manner in which the Democratic party through its representatives in the U. S. Congress—since they came into the majority and power in the lower House of Congress have enforced economies and retrenchment by wise legislation introduced—have won the esteem and confidence of many progressive Republicans and the masses in general. That we assume they have learned to trust the Democratic party and know its policies are not destructive but reconstructive and progressive and that it truly is the party of the people, for the people and by the people. That under the banner "The people shall rule" we can safely and consistently ask the voters irrespective of party to vote for our presidential nominees Wilson and Marshall and the whole Democratic ticket.

The people of the U. S. so far in 1912 have witnessed the most exciting and strenuous preliminary political warfare ever witnessed in the Nation. It is apparent the people are aroused and on the alert, ready to fight for and defend their rights.

Have you your fighting clothes on? Do you appreciate that the greatest opportunity for supremacy of popular government is within the grasp of the Democratic party. It is up to you its representatives to get busy at whatever sacrifice it may be to do your full duty as loyal patriots to win this fight and in the triumphant victory plant the Stars and Stripes upon the battle-ments of Democracy.

You have a distinguished citizen of the 33rd senatorial District of Pennsylvania, a resident of this historic town upon the ticket in the person of the Hon. Wm. A. Martin—who with ability and distinction has filled the high office of State Senator from this District with eminent satisfaction to his constituency. You not only owe him a majority but a high record complimentary vote and re-election.

You also have a member to the State Legislature to elect. The Democratic organization throughout the State is thoroughly aggressive and confident of electing the Hon. W. H. Berry State Treasurer and to give its electoral vote of the State to Gov. Wilson and make great efforts to elect a Democratic Legislature it therefore behooves you to make sure the election of your competent and deserving worthy nominee. Mr. Vincent Collins—Adams county needs him as its representative and the State needs him for his voice and vote to overthrow the Republican dynasty and machine rule that brought shame and disgrace upon the good name and fame of our great state.

It is upon principles and policies as enumerated in the platform as adopted by the Democratic National Convention at Baltimore that I desire to enter this campaign and to which I can subscribe my allegiance and honest endeavor to put into execution.

The platform upon which Hon. Woodrow Wilson will go to the White House as the Chief Executive of the Nation—is the platform upon which I must be elected. If I shall represent this District in the U. S. Congress—I will be your servant, and must of necessity and by principal be bound to the same policies upon which you elect the Chief Executive.

Wilson Club Organized.

About twenty-five of our citizens met on last Thursday evening at the home of John Raymond on Chambersburg street for the purpose of organizing a Wilson Club to advance the cause of Gov. Woodrow Wilson for the presidency of the United States.

The meeting was called to order by Democratic County Chairman S. Miley Miller, and as temporary officers Wm. Arch. McClean was chosen president and Geo. C. Fissel secretary.

The purpose of the proposed organization, its desirability, its help in the campaign ahead, and the details of organizing were discussed by those present and upon motion the following committees were appointed:

Committee on Permanent Organization—J. L. Williams, Esq., chairman, Prof. Geo. Rice, S. Miley Miller, W. F. Gilliland, John Raymond.

Committee on Constitution—C. E. Stahl, Esq., chairman, Jacob A. Ayler, G. C. Fissel.

Committee on Location—W. A. Taughinbaugh, chairman, Chas. Williams, John McDonnell.

Committee on Membership—G. C. Fissel, Harry E. Bumbaugh, Paul A. Martin, Dr. H. M. Hartman, Milton R. Remmel, Prof. Geo. Rice, John W. Brehm, J. O. G. Weaver, Wm. E. Olmger, E. H. Berkheimer.

The town has not been canvassed as will be done for members. Only a hurried canvass of a small part of the town has been made and already seventy-five citizens have become members and it is expected that this number will be greatly augmented when canvass has been thoroughly made. A central place for the location of club will be sought and it is expected that the club will be enthusiastically supported.

The club adjourned to meet on Thursday evening, August 8th, for permanent organization. This meeting will be held in the Court House, and a full turn out of every one interested in the candidacy of Woodrow Wilson is urged.

Hoffman Orphanage.

The dedication of the administration building, which was a gift of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Helb, of York, to the Hoffman Orphanage, near Littlestown, will take place on Thursday, July 25, and will be part of the anniversary exercises of the orphanage.

The administration building, which was erected during the past year through the generosity of Mr. and Mrs. Helb, is a three-story brick structure. It will be the chief building of the orphanage. The cost of the building is over $8000.

The anniversary exercises will take place in the afternoon and will be witnessed by many members of the Reformed denomination from this place and vicinity. Arrangements for conveying guests from Littlestown and Gettysburg to the orphanage have been made. "Dinner will be served" at the home. Sandwiches and coffee can be secured on the grounds.

Great Battlefield Chorus.

From Carlisle, comes the news of a great battlefield chorus to sing at the 1913 celebration, the chorus being gathered from Gettysburg, York, Carlisle, Hanover, Chambersburg, Harrisburg and a number of other nearby towns, and it is said the hope is entertained that the chorus will number 5000 voices. The dispatch to the city paper from Carlisle reads:

A musical feature of gigantic proportions may become a part of next year's celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the battle of Gettysburg. It has been planned to ask a great American composer to write a pretentious work, simple of rendition by a large chorus, in commemoration of the battle and the reunion of North and South and have a trained chorus of 5000 volunteer singers, drawn from southeastern Pennsylvania, produce the work during the anniversary.

Southern central Pennsylvania has many large communities within an hour's ride of Gettysburg, where large oratorio or singing societies have been maintained for many years. The great interest of the people of this section in music has been evidenced by the elaborate spring music festivals held in many of the smaller cities. According to present plans the published work may be in the hands of local singing societies by January, 1913, giving the choruses, trained locally, six months for preparation.

Because of the peculiarly sentimental interest which all Americans are showing in the Gettysburg anniversary, and the national character of its observance, it has been suggested that a country-wide competition be opened for the composition of an American national hymn; to have its initial rendition at Gettysburg, on the occasion of the semi-centennial.

Fell on Pitchfork.

Elmer Brown, the 16-year-old son of Millard Brown, met with a peculiar accident last week, on the farm of Isaiah Diller, in Conowingo township, Adams county, which at first was thought to be fatal.

Mr. Diller and a neighbor were engaged in hauling in wheat, being assisted in unloading by young Brown. At the instance of Mr. Diller, the lad ascended a stationary ladder to open a trap door in the roof. In descending he jumped a distance of about 12 feet to the mow, falling upon a fork handle that stood upward unobserved by the boy. The handle of the fork penetrated the lower part of his abdomen about ten inches. With remarkable nerve, the boy pulled the handle out and went down to the threshing floor, where he was found by Mr. Diller and others who came to his assistance.

Dr. A. C. Rice, of McSherrystown, was hastily summoned, and rendered all possible relief to the unfortunate lad. After consultation with his parents, Dr. Rice deemed it advisable to remove the young man to the York hospital. Accompanied by Dr. Rice he was taken to York over the trolley line.

The latest information from the hospital is that the young man is improving nicely and hopes are entertained for his recovery.

MARRIAGES.

ECKENRODE—BRINKERHOFF—On last Wednesday morning at 8:30 in St. Francis Xavier church, Rev. Father T. X. Dougherty united in marriage Miss S. Eleanor Brinkerhoff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Brinkerhoff, of this place, and Edward R. Eckenrode, of Omaha, son of Dr. and Mrs. C. E. Eckenrode of this place.

She was attended by her sister Miss Louise Brinkerhoff as maid of honor, wearing a white tulle lace gown trimmed with yellow messaline and carried daisies. James Eckenrode, brother of the groom was best man.

The wedding party entered the church to the bridal chorus from Lo hengrin played by Miss Mary Ramer. During the ceremony the intermezzo from Cavalleria Rusticana and Mendelssohn's spring song were played, and Miss Zita Ramer sang "O Salutaris." The recessional was the Mendelssohn March.

A reception followed at the home of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Eckenrode left town on wedding trip by auto and about Aug. 1 will go to Omaha, where groom with several brothers is interested in a store.

The out-of-town guests were Misses Loretta and Alice Clautie and Miss Mary Jamison, of Baltimore; Miss Marie Oester, Philadelphia; Miss Sara C. Stahl, of Orrtanna; H. J. Brinkerhoff and George Brinkerhoff, of Washington, D. C.

Stallsmith, of near Brush Run station, Mount Pleasant township, Adams county, were united in marriage Tuesday, June 25 last. The ceremony took place at Leacock, Lancaster county, and was performed by the Rev. Hiram J. Hillegas.

MECKLEY—HAAR—June 29, at York, by Rev. J. Kern McKee, Chas. Meckley and Sarah Haar, both of Abbotstown.

INVITATIONS have been sent out for the wedding of Miss Mildred Content Hildebrand only daughter and child of Dr. J. H. Hildebrand of Biglerville to Hon. James Clement Cole, to take place in St. Ignatius church, Buchanan Valley, July 25th at 9 o'clock a. m.

Newspaper Men See Gettysburg.

Thirty-seven members of the Lancaster City and Lancaster County Editorial Association made their annual run and trip by auto to Gettysburg yesterday—Tuesday—July 16. They came in eight automobiles by way of York, Abbotstown and New Oxford and took dinner at the City Hotel. After dinner they made a trip over the battlefield and returned by way of Spring Grove, where a visit was made to the paper mill and supper was taken in York. Major Jos. W. Yocum of the "Daily Spy," of Columbia was in the fight at Gettysburg and told the newspaper boys about it in a short speech following dinner.

Cathleen's
Capture

By Izola Forrester

(Copyright, 1912, by Associated Literary Press)

"Listen!" whispered Cathleen excitedly. "Can't you hear him now?"

"Deed, and it's only the crackling of the telephone wires, Miss Cathie. Don't you be worrying so," soothed Blake, brushing out the long, beautiful waves of chestnut hair. "There isn't a soul out a night like this for miles. You're tired and a bit nervous."

"I'm not a bit nervous, Blake," Cathleen retorted haughtily. She stared at the reflection of herself in the oval mirror and frowned. It was certainly a white and troubled young person who returned her gaze of inquiry.

"Anyway, I don't think it at all right for papa to send me out here at this time of the year."

"Tis a fine place for the asthma," Blake said gently.

"But I haven't asthma. It's papa who has asthma. I think he should have thought of me a little in the matter. It's cold and bleak and miserable down here on the shore this time of the year, and there's nobody living here—oh, Blake, there it is again. Don't you—can't you hear it?"

It was unmistakable this time. A steady, dragging sound on the roof. Cathleen reached for the pink-shaded lights, and extinguished them with fingers that strove to be steady. She thought quickly. They had arrived that afternoon, without warning, from New York. Her father was to follow the next morning with his nurse and secretary. Only Blake and the old housekeeper were in the house besides herself. The chauffeur was in town.

The house was one of several in a summer colony on the bay. The long gardens rambled straight down to the water's edge. It was the last of the row, and faced the sea on two sides. So far as Cathleen knew, there were no other residents there, only a few servants left in charge through the winter.

Blake moved cautiously to the nearest window and peered out. It was a stormy spring night. The rain was pelted down in sheets. Out to sea the lightning cut the darkness in long glittering dashes, coming swiftly after every crack of thunder.

The house was built with gables. Cathleen's suite was in the front, so that the side windows commanded a full view of the sloping roof on the east gable above the library. She leaned over Blake's shoulder, and watched for the next flare of light.

"There he is," she whispered. "He's climbed up as far as the parapet. Blake, and is crouching behind that chimney."

"And what should he do that for, Miss Cathie?" Blake objected. "Wouldn't he go in the windows by choice?"

"I don't know," laughed Cathleen, her nerves running to extremes. "Maybe he prefers chimneys. I'm going to telephone the village and get the police out here just as soon as they can come."

Blake listened to the howl of the storm outside.

"Ah, sure, they'll never get up the shore in this gale, Miss Cathie," she groaned, but Cathleen had already sped down the long hall, and she spoke only to the wind-pane.

"Yes, hello, hello," called Cathleen tremulously, as she got the number at Seponsett headquarters. "This is Mr. Reid's residence on the bay shore. There is a burglar on the roof, and I am alone except for two servants, both women. Can you send help at once? What? I don't know. We only arrived about half an hour ago. The house has been closed all winter. Do hurry. I'm afraid you'll be too late."

She hung up the receiver and turned around to face Blake.

"I think he's trying to come down the chimney," he said, and I do. He's acting that crafty. And there's the open fireplace in the library, Miss Cathie. Do you think he'll be dropping down that way?"

Cathleen felt a wave of faintness sweep over her. It was her first experience with burglars. But she clenched both hands and stood fast.

"Shall I wake Mrs. Busby?"

"No," replied Cathleen, firmly. "She's too nervous. The police will be here in ten minutes. He won't come down a hot chimney. You go and build a fire in the library, Blake, and I'll get papa's revolver from his room, and cover him with it from my window, and if he breaks in, I'll shoot."

The man on the east gable worked with deliberation. Now he crouched behind the low parapet as the wind swept in from the sea. Then Cathleen could see him start to work with renewed energy. He seemed to be tearing at the roof. There were slate plates on it, Cathleen remembered. Mr. Reid was British, and had his own ideas of what a roof should be like even on Long Island. She wondered if perhaps this was a slate thief, and then choked a laugh in her handkerchief, at the picture of any burglar stealing pounds of slate to bear away down the lonely shore a night like this. More probably he was a lunatic. There was a private asylum six miles away. Cathleen felt more hopeful. One might divert a lunatic where a burglar had preconceived notions.

Suddenly he began to descend with startling rapidity. He was down on the veranda roof before she realized it, not thirty feet from her.

"They're coming, Miss Cathie!" called Blake, in a hushed tone from the lower hall. "You can hear them now."

Cathleen raised the window, and leaned out.

"Don't you move or I'll shoot!" she cried. He moved, nevertheless, and quickly, too. She leveled the revolver and fired into the darkness, but not toward the sound. There was dead silence on the roof below her, then she could almost have sworn she heard a laugh.

Blake was directing the police upstairs. She heard steps below in the garden, hurried, adventurous steps, and drew back from the window, white and chilled.

"They've got him, Miss Cathie, in the library," Blake brought the news. "He's that bold and daring, too. They want you to see him. Not a word will he say."

"Oh, must I?" Cathleen hesitated, but the Reid blood was not made of milk.

Head up, and steady nerved, she went down to the library. The burglar met her gaze squarely. He was young, smooth-faced, towls-haired, rough-coated, hatless. His curly hair was drenched and curled tightly. It was the hair that gave him away.

"Tommy," she gasped. "Tommy, how could you?"

"How could you?" retorted Tommy, mildly.

"But I didn't know you were here?"

"Your father sent me down on the afternoon train."

"But why on earth were you on the roof?"

Tommy's eyes twinkled. He raised his handcuffed wrists.

"It leaked, lady. I was only fixing it. It was coming in awfully, and I was asleep in the room underneath. I didn't hear you arrive even."

"You might have seen the light."

"But I was looking for a leak. Won't you please explain?"

Cathleen explained, with what dignity she could gather. The man was Mr. Thomas Drew, a close friend of the family. There was a mistake. She had no idea he was there at all. And she was very sorry.

When they were alone in the great dim library, Tommy took her in his arms with unmistakable intentions.

"You said I was a close friend of the family," he protested, "and you're the family. Do you suppose I was going to be railroaded down South or West, while you stayed here for three months? The governor needs somebody here to look after his business interests, and I applied for the position. Also, the word goes around that I'm to be a junior partner. Will you be a June bride, sweetheart?"

"Tommy, you don't know how funny you looked in those steel rings."

"The first week in June?"

Cathleen laughed, and raised her face from his coat sleeve.

"If you promise to keep off people's roofs."

LIFE IN A CITY TENEMENT

Not Hard for Sophisticated Listener to Understand What Goes On in the Building.

I could stand at any time in the unswept entrance hall and tell, from an analysis of the medley of sounds and smells that issued from doors ajar, what was going on in the several flats, from below up, writes Mary Antin in the Atlantic. That guttural, scolding voice, unremittent as the hissing of a steam-pipe, is Mrs. Rasnosky. I make a guess that she is chastising the infant Isaac for taking a second lump of sugar in his tea. Spam, bam! yes, and she is rubbing in her objections with the flat of her hand. That blubbery and moaning, accompanying an elephantine tread, is fat Mrs. Casey, second floor, home drunk from an afternoon out, in fear of the vengeance of Mr. Casey; to propitiate whom she is burning a pan of bacon, as the choking fumes and outrageous sizzling testify. I hear a feeble whining, interrupted by long silences. It is that scabby baby on the third floor, fallen out of bed again, with nobody at home to pick him up.

To escape from these various horrors I ascend to the roof, where bacon and babies and child-beating are not. But there I find two figures in calico wrappers, with bare red arms akimbo, a basket of wet clothes in front of each, and only one empty clothes-line between them. I do not want to be dragged in as a witness in a case of assault and battery, so I go down to the street again, grateful to note, as I pass, that the third-floor baby is still.

In front of the door I squeeze through a group of children. They are going to play tag, and are counting to see who should be "it."

My mother-and-your-mother-went-out-to-hang-clothes? My mother-saw-your-mother-a-punch-in-the-nose?

If the children's couplet does not give a vivid picture of the life, manners and customs of Dover street, no description of mine can ever do so.

A curious scene was enacted the other day in a London (Eng.) police court, during the hearing of a charge brought against a young Swiss operatic artist. In reply to the accusation the prisoner stated that he had been engaged at a West End theater for ten years. Then, before any one had guessed his purpose, the court was ringing with a tenor song from one of the Italian operas. The amazed jailer stopped him as soon as he had recovered his presence of mind, and the accused seemed to share in the general astonishment. "That," he said, with the profoundest of bows, "is to secure the victory of what I speak."

NEVER WILL BEAR REPETITION

Business Man Has Found That He Cannot Repeat Verbal Castigation Over Phone.

When the telephone bell rang the senior partner said to the junior partner:

"If that is that man Bailey, just you tell him what you think of him, even if you lay yourself liable to a fine for violent language."

The junior partner relieved himself of a few abusive epithets, but presently, after a brief pause, he expressed the same sentiments couched in much milder terms. Said the junior partner:

"There you go, crawling again. Why can't you stick to what you said in the first place?"

The junior partner dropped the receiver.

"Supposing you come and say it yourself," he said.

The senior partner did so, but after a little he, too, repeated his harangue with all the backbone left out.

"It's no use," he said. "You can't curse a man twice over the 'phone who answers your first outburst with 'I beg your pardon. I didn't quite catch that. Say it again, please.' That is Bailey's way. You try to say it again, but the second time it sounds pretty rank even in your own ears and your tempest of rage moderates into a tranquil breeze."

QUICK WIT SAVED SOLDIER

Ready Answer Pleased Napoleon and Disarmed Indignation of Man Whose Name He Assumed.

In the French campaign in Italy, in which Napoleon I. first began to win the laurels which subsequently, so abundantly crowned his career, a young Italian cavalry officer was taken prisoner. Having serious doubts about his safety, it occurred to him to pretend he was a great personage. So he promised rewards to his captors if they would insure his good treatment, adding confidently that he was the duke of Modena. He was exceedingly well cared for, and early next morning was called before Napoleon, who was somewhat puzzled at finding two dukes of Modena among his prisoners, for the real duke was also a prisoner. The real duke angrily asked his counterpart by what authority he had assumed the title of duke of Modena. The young officer answered:

"Your grace, the peril of my situation yesterday was such that had I known a more illustrious title I would not have assumed yours."

The reply so pleased both the duke and General Napoleon that he was forgiven his deceit.

Sympathize With the Child.

Never laugh at your little one's confidences. Sympathize with his plans, no matter how wild they may seem. If you think his imagination is carrying him too far, administer a slight check by asking if such and such a plan seems the best thing to do.

It is to a gentle mother of this kind that the son will carry his hopes and fears when he is a man full grown.

Few mothers consider the real importance of having their children's perfect confidence when they are young. It means to them that they can feel perfect trust in their sons and daughters when they are grown. It means that the mother need not worry about where Tom is if he is absent from the home for a few hours, because he will tell her all about it tomorrow.

The fact that a boy knows that his mother expects his confidence and that she places her trust in him will be his surest incentive toward an upright, honorable manhood.

Idea Exploded Long Ago.

In the search for a cure for consumption a Maryland physician thinks he has found one in snake poison. His procedure is to sterilize it and use it as an injection, the poison immediately killing the bacilli, according to program.

Our old friend Colonel Maceroni, to whose memoirs we are indebted, wrote nearly a hundred years ago:

"Naples, like other places, has its 'old school' in medicine. According to the olden pharmacopoeia viper broth is recommended as most restorative and nutritious to debilitated and consumptive persons. Hence, every apothecary's shop is furnished with a large chest, containing some scores of living vipers, and, of course, there is such a trade as that of viper catchers. I need not inform my intelligent readers that the virtue of viper broth exists alone in the imaginations, or, rather, in the moldy writings, of the long since departed prescribers."

His Definition.

A southern congressman recently met for the first time in some years an aged dandy who was formerly in the representative's service. During their converse the congressman learned the interesting fact that his old servant had, in his advanced age, learned to read.

"Well, now, Sam," remarked the former master, "that makes things interesting for you, doesn't it? You should find pleasant companionship in books and papers."

"Yessah," oracularly assented the old man. "Readin' is shore a great thing sah. I has given de matter considerable consideration, sah, an' I is prepared to say, sah, dat readin' is de power of hearin' with de eyes."—Lippincott's.

recommended Doan's Kidney Pills two years ago and I now take the pleasure in confirming that statement.
A member of my family complained a great deal of pains through the small doing such good work in similar cases, that we decided to try them and a sup-

Road Repairing by State.

Systematic maintenance of the 8,000 miles of road embraced in the 296 main highway routes of Pennsylvania's comprehensive plan for improvement of highways has been inaugurated by the State Highway Department, and the work is expected to show decided results before the end of summer. Maintenance of the roads taken over by the commonwealth is imposed upon the State by the Sproul main highway act of 1911, and supervision of repair and upkeep is vested in superintendents having charge of one or more counties each.

This repair work is probably one of the largest tasks undertaken by any state in road improvement, and while the amount accomplished this year will be limited, owing to the comparatively small portion of funds at hand for the purpose, the organization of operations will be a long step in the line of progress.

The State has been divided into districts comprising from four to eight counties, and these districts have been subdivided, the smaller divisions being in charge of the road superintendents who are responsible to the engineers in charge of the larger areas.
The superintendents are organizing their forces for repairs, and roads which have been neglected or damaged will be put into shape for good travelling, especially those in the vicinity of market towns, so that farmers may be given the advantage of better roads and town residents obtain farm produce more easily. Gradually the work is to be extended as funds are made available by the legislature for repair of all State roads, which will naturally result in a stimulus to local improvement on township highways, many of which connect with main highways.

Repairs will consist of removal of humps, dragging, patching, under-draining and ditching, roads which have been built by the State since the organization of the Highway department in 1903 will be put into good condition wherever they have been allowed to run down, special care will be taken to improve the drainage.

It is believed to be possible to put many roads into shape to last under proper maintenance for years to come,
at least until they can be reconstructed out of the $50,000,000 bond issue for permanent road building which will come before the legislature of 1913 for final action and then be submitted to the people for ratification in the form of an amendment to the constitution. The voting of this money to be spent throughout a term of years and according to a well thought out plan will be of lasting benefit to rural communities and put Pennsylvania in the front rank of progressive states.

Length of Day.

The following is the length of days in different parts of the world. At Berlin and London the longest day has 16 1/2 hours. At Stockholm and Upp-sala the longest day has 18 1/2 hours, and the shortest 5 1/2 hours. At Hamburg, Danzig and Stettin, the longest day has 17 hours and the shortest 7.
At St. Petersburg and Tobolsk the longest has 19 and the shortest 5 hours. At Torneo, in Finland the longest day has 21 1/2 hours and the shortest 2 1/2. At Wandsworth, in Norway, the day lasts from the 21st of May to the 22nd of July without interruption, and in Spitzbergen the longest day lasts three and a half months.

THE U. S. GOVERNMENT in its "Pure Food Law" does not "endorse" or guarantee any preparation, as some manufacturers in their advertisements of medicines the law provides that certain drugs shall be mentioned on the labels, if they are ingredients of the preparations. El's Cream Balm, catarrh, doesn't contain a single in-

Blue-Eyed, Innocent-Looking Youngster by No Means the Saint He Seemed to Be.

A little incident came up in discussing boys at the Y. M. C. A. the other night that brought forth a story from a man who had once been a director of the Boys' club.

"I was standing in the door of the Boys' club," said he, "extolling the perfect disposition of a little blue-eyed youngster who was sitting in a window a few feet away from us. The woman member of the board of directors to whom I was doing the extolling had remarked how nice the little boy seemed, such a placid face, such pretty blue eyes. She was sure he had a lovely disposition. I agreed with her perfectly. And I might have thought so yet, but for a rude awakening. A small boy leaned out of the window above the model youngster. He had a medicine ball—one of those big leather bags, much like a round football, except that it was stuffed with cotton. The ball had lost most of its filling. Little Algernon or Jimmie, or whatever his name happened to be, leaned out of the window, and taking deadly aim, he dropped the dilapidated ball square on little Blue Eyes' head. The effect was volcanic.
Little Blue Boy poured out a string of street English that would have shamed a professional.

Intelligence of the Elephant Proved to Be Developed to a Marked Degree.

The elephant looks stupid enough, but his intelligence is developed to a marked degree. Dr. Romanes tells several interesting stories of these animals. A man was one day feeding a tame elephant with potatoes which the elephant took from his hand. A small round potato fell on the ground just out of reach.

After several unsuccessful attempts to get it the animal blew so strong a blast of breath against it that it was dashed against a wall, from which it rebounded so far that he easily reached it. It is said that an elephant will often blow just beyond small objects out of reach so that the reflected current of air will drive them toward him.

Dr. Romanes repeats the story of an elephant that was chained to a tree near a little oven in which his driver had just baked some rice cakes. When the driver went away, leaving his cakes to cool, the elephant unfastened the chain from his leg, uncovered the oven, opened it, ate the cakes, and covered the oven with earth and stones as he had found it. He then returned to his place, and wound the chain about his leg as it was before, although he could not fasten it. The driver, on his return, found the elephant with his back toward the oven, and looking innocent, but the cakes had completely disappeared.—Youth's Companion.

Historic Churchyard.

The Church of St. George the Martyr, whose crypt it is proposed to fit up for the church scouts, is famous for the eminent men buried in its churchyard. For this was for many years the burial places of prisoners in the Marshalsea and King's Bench, and illustrious prisoners were common there. Bonner, Bishop of London, died in the Marshalsea, and was buried in St. George's churchyard, and here, too, are buried Rushworth, clerk of parliament in the days of Charles I. and the famous Cocker, whose arithmetic book went through a hundred editions. The parish register records the marriages of Lilly, the astrologer, and General Monk. This parish register narrowly escaped destruction, for at a public vestry in 1776 it was resolved to "sell to Mr. Samuel Carter all the parish papers in a lump at three half-pence per pound."—London Chronicle.

Burglars Aid Collections.

"Being a moral member of the community, naturally I deplore burglaries," said the church treasurer. "If I studied the welfare of the church alone I should encourage them, for next to the burglars themselves, the people who profit most from an epidemic of small robberies are the churches.

"With peace and safety reigning in a neighborhood, householders leave most of their money at home when they go to church, consequently they contribute in dribbles, but just let that same locality become infested with burglars and everybody takes his money to church and increases his contributions proportionately."

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitu-constitutional treatment. Hall's Cat-constitutional cure on the market. It
